Orlando Office

Overview

Richard Phelps practices in the areas of complex commercial litigation, general litigation, and business disputes. A Florida native, Richard received his B.A. in Spanish from the University of Florida in Gainesville. He then worked as a claims adjuster for two major automobile insurance carriers before attending law school at the Florida A&M College of Law.

Prior to joining Dutton Law Group, Richard gained litigation experience representing various insurance carriers in first party matters related to the Personal Injury Protection coverage, automobile accidents and homeowners' claims.

While he is not busy advocating for his clients, Richard enjoys running and spending time with his family.
